DFC Consultants' VP of Business Development Helps Blind Grandfather Running to Raise Money for Cystic Fibrosis Research

Fargo, ND - David Kuhn, a 61-year-old blind runner, recently made a stop in Fargo as part of his 11,000-mile journey to raise research funds and awareness of cystic fibrosis, a genetic disorder that his granddaughter suffers from. Jodi, VP of Business Development at DFC, heard that David was looking for running partners and immediately volunteered. Apart from being an avid runner, Jodi lost a sister-in-law to cystic fibrosis, so she knew that she had to help.

During Kuhn's time in Fargo, Jodi served as a sighted guide four times and also shared meals with him to get to know him better. "His attitude in life is remarkable," Buchholz said. "He is an optimist and has decided to make a choice about the cards he has been dealt in life. I'm touched by his bravery and endurance."

David, who is originally from DeKalb, Illinois, lost his sight after an automobile accident with a drunk driver in 1981.

He began his running journey in Seattle last May. He hopes to raise $500,000 for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and plans to complete his goal in an 18- or 19-month time frame. As of August 5 when he left Fargo, he had raised $4,000 and completed 1,200 miles. Kuhn blogs about every day of his journey, the stops he made and the people he met.
